Subject: Stop the dead-end road

There is little reason to build such a road, except for those very few that stand to make a lot of money. Put the same amount of money and effort into the ferry system or education or health care or repair of current roads, bridges, school, and other public buildings. The need is endless and way more important than a road to nowhere.

- Before anything further and at the very least, the people of the State should have an itemized estimation of the cost and where the money to build AND to maintain will come from and what will happen if the cost estimates are too low to build or maintain.
